11) That Affiant has no record nor evidence that defendant's have any lawful or legal right to make any sort of claim to the land in question, and no evidence of such a duty exists,

12) That Affiant does formally demand any "original" contract or deed which is used to base the defendant's claim on be brought forward and to verify it in open court, and

13) That a court of law requires the "original" contract or deed be entered as evidence, and

17) That Affiant has no evidence that the phrase "no taxes due and transfer entered" means anything but that, and

19) That Affiant believes that there is much evidence that defendants have given up all claims to the land in question and no evidence to the contrary exists, and

20) There is a federal question in this case as the defendant's have attempted to force duties and obligations through statutory means while violating our inherent unalienable God given rights of the Disciples Road which are given to us by God as found in the Authorized 1611 King James Bible, the united States Constitution and it's bill of rights as well as the state of Minnesota's Constitution and it's bill of rights. and it's members the real party in interest and;
